Cloud Plan: Infrastructure

The Cloud Plan: Infrastructure offering is designed to help initiate a new Google Cloud Platform (GCP) project. This offering includes a kickoff workshop and will help customers document requirements to arrive at a technical design and approach.

Key Activities

Technical Infrastructure Kickoff (TIK) Workshop
Conduct a one-day workshop to present key decision points on how the GCP foundations will be set up for development and production environments.

Technical Operations Kickoff (TOK) Workshop
Conduct a one-day workshop to share key concepts and best practices for operating a GCP production service, customized to the customer's application and environment.

Set up of GCP Foundational Elements
Assist the customer with their foundational setup, such as IAM, project, VPC/ network structure, based on the information and decisions from the TIK workshop.

Workload Inventory
Create an inventory of potential workloads targeted for migration to Google Cloud. Document key characteristics of these workloads to evaluate in preparation for future deployment.

First Movers Assessment and Migration Planning
Prioritize and select "first mover" applications from the workload inventory. Conduct an assessment and capacity plan for these first mover applications for readiness to move to Google Cloud. Assist the customer in developing plan for migrating existing or demo application to GCP, which may result in actual migration of a target application, time-permitting.

Project Planning
Build an initial plan for deployment and migration activities given customer's requirements and timelines. As part of the planning, a training plan will be delivered to contribute to the readiness of the team.

Design Documentation
Document key decisions and design of the production-level technical architecture.
